HURRICANE IRMA

United States Cold Storage Preparations

Voorhees, NJ, September 8, 2017– USCS is currently preparing for Hurricane Irma. Our facilities in Florida and North Carolina have activated their hurricane preparedness plans. In addition to ensuring that our employees and their families are safe and adequately prepared, USCS is taking the following operational precautions to protect our customer’s products:

- Obtaining generators.
- Securing fuel service including ongoing stocking as needed.
- Lowering warehouse temperatures.
- Safeguarding the warehouse access.
- Preparing the refrigeration system to reduce potential storm impact.

Operations at each facility have been or may be adjusted based on the forecast path of the hurricane. All customers and tenants have been or will be notified of any operational changes. All calls for the Florida facilities will be directed to the Southern Regional office in Dallas, TX. Calls for the North Carolina facilities should be directed to the local customer service representative.
